

Harvill Secker Young Translators' Prize

Harvill Secker, publisher of quality international writing, announces the sixth annual Harvill Secker Young Translators' Prize. This year's language will be Polish.

Judges Antonia Lloyd-Jones (translator), Eva Hoffman (author), Catherine Taylor (journalist and deputy director, English PEN) and Ellie Steel (editor) will consider translations of "Tatuaz", a short story by Maciej Miłkowski. The winning translator will be awarded £1000 and a mentorship supported by Writers' Centre Norwich and the Polish Cultural Institute. The winner will also take part in Crossing Border festival.

Deadline for entries: 31 July 2015

To enter and for further information, please visit www.youngtranslatorsprize.com

